

Notes from the studio

I start with a walk and a small notebook. The drawings rarely look like the place itself. A bend in a river becomes a pale shape; a stand of trees becomes a line of green. Back at the desk, I reduce the sketch to a handful of colors.

This one-page studio note and the Estuary SVG are original sample work for a fictional illustrator. They demonstrate a bio page with useful local destinations and downloadable artwork.